

Industry Update

Continued Sharing of Industry Information

RE/MAX 2006 Housing Market Outlook

After shattering existing records from coast-to-coast in 2005, housing values are expected to moderate in most major centers in 2006. More balanced conditions should emerge in the year ahead, characterized by healthy inventory levels and less urgency in the marketplace.

Click here for the full report:

http://www.remax-oa.com/MarketReports_PDF/Nov-05_MarketOutlook/MarketOutlook-RPT-Nov06.pdf

Decade in Review – 1995-2005

Home sales across the country rose to approximately 3.6 million units between 1995 to 2004, up 25% over the 2.9 million reported sales in 1985-1994. Statistics Canada pinpoints homeownership levels at 65.2 per cent nationally in 2002 and rising. Only Quebec and BC reported homeownership levels under the national average.

To read the full report, click here:

http://www.remax-oa.com/roafiles/marketreports/decade_rpt.pdf

Building Your Business Plan for the New Year by Matt Jones

“What if you really could plan your business? What if you could map out a specific plan? And what if you could then hold yourself accountable to that blueprint and, at the end of the year, look back and see that you'd accomplished most of what you'd planned? What if you could decide that you'd build your business a certain way and then actually be able to do it just as you'd intended?”

To read what Matt has to say, click here:

http://www.brokeragentnews.com/news/residential/2005_12/12_31_2005_gq_1136016818.html

“The Real Estate Leaders”

